Foreword

In my inaugural address, I declared: "Our democracy must be not only the envy of the world but the engine of our own renewal. There is nothing wrong with America that cannot be cured by what is right with America."

In the first 6 months of our Administration, we called upon America's historic strengths to revitalize the economy, restore the middle class, rebuild our national security for a new era, and renew the people's sense of national community and their faith in public institutions.

We built upon the entrepreneurial energy of our free enterprise system with an economic plan that cut the Federal deficit, invested in our workers' skills, expanded college opportunity for the sons and daughters of the middle class, rewarded the efforts of the working poor, and helped businesses expand and create new jobs. We strengthened American families with the Family and Medical Leave Act, which helps Americans be good parents and good workers. We enhanced America's world leadership with efforts to open foreign markets, ensure the readiness of our military forces, promote democracy abroad, preserve our planet's natural environment, and advance regional security in Europe, Asia, the Mideast, and throughout the world. We strengthened America's sense of community with initiatives here at home to encourage young people to serve their country, to protect our people from violent crime and drug abuse, and to reinvent government to make it reflect American values. And we began the work of preserving what is right, and fixing what is wrong, with America's health care system.

Most of all, this volume is a testimonial to those who embody what is best about America, the citizens of our country. The American people called for the changes chronicled in this volume; they held the President and the Congress accountable for achieving these changes; and, in countless actions in their own lives—from raising their children with values of responsibility and faith to helping to keep their own neighborhoods safe from crime and violence—they are continuing the work of renewing our democracy.

Preface

This book contains the papers and speeches of the 42d President of the United States that were issued by the Office of the Press Secretary during the period January 20–July 31, 1993. The material has been compiled and published by the Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Administration.

The material is presented in chronological order, and the dates shown in the headings are the dates of the documents or events. In instances when the release date differs from the date of the document itself, that fact is shown in the textnote. Every effort has been made to ensure accuracy: Remarks are checked against a tape recording, and signed documents are checked against the original. Textnotes and cross references have been provided by the editors for purposes of identification or clarity. Speeches were delivered in Washington, DC, unless indicated. The times noted are local times. All materials that are printed full-text in the book have been indexed in the subject and name indexes, and listed in the document categories list.

The Public Papers of the Presidents series was begun in 1957 in response to a recommendation of the National Historical Publications Commission. An extensive compilation of messages and papers of the Presidents covering the period 1789 to 1897 was assembled by James D. Richardson and published under congressional authority between 1896 and 1899. Since then, various private compilations have been issued, but there was no uniform publication comparable to the Congressional Record or the United States Supreme Court Reports. Many Presidential papers could be found only in the form of mimeographed White House releases or as reported in the press. The Commission therefore recommended the establishment of an official series in which Presidential writings, addresses, and remarks of a public nature could be made available.

The Commission's recommendation was incorporated in regulations of the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register, issued under section 6 of the Federal Register Act (44 U.S.C. 1506), which may be found in title 1, part 10, of the Code of Federal Regulations.

A companion publication to the Public Papers series, the Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, was begun in 1965 to provide a broader range of Presidential materials on a more timely basis to meet the needs of the contemporary reader. Beginning with the administration of Jimmy Carter, the Public Papers series expanded its coverage to include additional material as printed in the Weekly Compilation. That coverage provides a listing of the President's daily schedule and meetings, when announced, and other items of general interest issued by the Office of the Press Secretary. Also included are lists of the Press General interest issued by the Office of the Press Secretary that are not printed full-text in the book, and proclamations, Executive orders, and other Presidential documents released by the Office of the Press Secretary and published in the Federal Register. This information appears in the appendixes at the end of the book.

Volumes covering the administrations of Presidents Hoover, Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford, Carter, Reagan, and Bush are also available.

The Public Papers of the Presidents publication program is under the direction of Frances D. McDonald, Director of the Presidential Documents and Legislative Division. The series is produced by the Presidential Documents Unit, Gwen H. Estep, Chief. The Chief Editor of this book was Karen Howard Ashlin, assisted by Margaret A. Hastings, Carolyn W. Hill, Susannah C. Hurley, Rachel Rondell, Cheryl E. Sirofchuck, Michael J. Sullivan, and Elizabeth N. Thomas.

The frontispiece and photographs used in the portfolio were supplied by the White House Photo Office. The typography and design of the book were developed by the Government Printing Office under the direction of Michael F. DiMario, Public Printer.
